BEPS: The outcome Impact for EU and Swiss tax policy

Lausanne, 19-20 January 2016

Swiss and international tax policy

OVERVIEW AND PROGRAM

On 5 October the OECD delivered its long awaited final reports relating to its Base Erosion and Profit Shifting (BEPS) Project. Whether they entail a binding framework or simply consist in recommendations, these deliverables are of paramount importance for all OECD and European Member States. In particular, Switzerland's III corporate tax reform, whose draft bill was sent to Parliament in June, has strongly been influenced by the BEPS action plan. Moreover, BEPS may lead to amendments to Swiss law beyond the corporate tax reform.

The Symposium of international tax law, which will be held at the University of Lausanne on 19 and 20 January 2016, is proud to offer a forum for discussion of the foregoing critical tax policy issues. The faculty of the Symposium shall consist in leading representatives from the OECD, the European Commission, Swiss Federal and Cantonal tax administrations as well as international and Swiss academics, practitioners from the private sector or industry.

On 19 January, particular emphasis will be placed on CFC rules, harmful tax competition (the implementation of nexus based patent boxes by various countries), exchange of information and tax rulings, hybrid mismatches and abuse of tax treaties. We will also be discussing the beneficial ownership Swap case decided by the Swiss Supreme Court on 5 May 2015. On 20 January, on the other hand, we shall be looking at the compatibility of BEPS with EU law. Last but not least, we shall turn to the very latest on Switzerland's corporate tax reform and the possible future evolution of its fiscal policy.

On behalf of the organizing committee and our speakers, I look very much forward to welcoming you on our beautiful campus in January.

Yours sincerely,

Prof. Dr. Robert J. Danon
